NEW YORK, Nov. 29 .-(AP)-Fritz Kuhn was convicted tonight of grand larceny and forgery in the alleged theft of money from his German-American Bund.

Eight and one-half hours after receiving the case, the jury of 12 businessmen announced their verdict-conviction on all of the five counts left to the jury's decision.

Excusing the jury, General Séssions Judge James G. Wallace said: "The court feels that the verdict you have rendered is on the evidence and is not based on anything else. The jury deliberated so earnestly, heard the evidence so attentively and has sat so long on this case that it is entitled to the thanks of the court."

Million Soviet Troops Mass on Border, Facing Army That at Best Can Muster 400,000 Soldiers.

PROTECTING NATION DECLARED RED AIM

Finnish Government Bears Full Blame for Situation, Says Molotoff

By WITT HANCOCK. MOSCOW, Nov. 30 .-

(Thursday) - (AP) - Soviet Russia has broken off diplomatic relations with Finland but left the world in doubt as to her further intentions. Severance of diplomatic relations between nations often is a forerunner of war, but Russia declared she had no intention of annexing Finnish territory or of compromising Finland's independence.

With a million Russian troops massed on the Finnish border facmuster 400,000 men, Russian Premier-Foreign Minister Vyacheslaff Molotoff declared in a midnight broadcast that Russia was taking "immediate" steps to keep her security inviolate. Midnight Broadcast.

His midnight broadcast, delivered with a background of stirring martial music and Red army marching songs, called on Russia's millions of Red troops and her navy to be prepared for any action. The navy already has been engaging in exercises in the Gulf of finland, in close proximity to Finnish islands which Russia has asked for naval bases. The official note severing relations was handed by Molotoff to Baron Aarno Yrio-Koskinen, the Finnish minister, at 10:30 p. m.

Attitude of Others. (The news was received with consternation in Helsinki, the Finnish capital. Other Scandinavian countries regarded the Russian action as extremely ominous and feared there was no further possibility of a peaceful settlement of the Finnish-Russian dispute.) In his broadcast announcing severance of relations, Molotoff declared that long, "patient negotiations" with Finland had resulted only in an "irreconcilable attitude" on the part of Finland whose leaders acted "in the interests of imperialistic warmongers." "The only aim of our nation is to safeguard the security of the Soviet Union and in particular Leningrad with its population of 3,500,000," Molotoff declared.

"In view of the present international situation we could not make a solution of this vital and urgent question conditional upon the bad faith of the present Finnish lead-

FEBRUARY 15, 1939:

I visited the wardrobe department today to get an interview for an article I am preparing. While waiting outside the hall, a young man, pale and thin, an employe of this department came. What a cry went up in the offices when he was discovered! He was grabbed, hugged, kissed, and his hand pumped up and down. Jack had just come back after two weeks in the hospital—appendicitis. I thought they were going to make him ill again with their effusive welcome.

"We must celebrate!" they said. "Marian, put the kettle on!" In a few minutes they had tea and cookies. Everybody in the department was called in to share in this "welcome home." There was no formality in this party-no Spode china or Madeira napkins. Cups were held in one hand and phones answered with the other.

When Marian and I went into the office of the head of the department, I noticed on his desk a pile of packages, beautifully

In a letter to the jurist (who was absent yesterday) Wardlaw pointed out that typing the grand jury reports and recommendations is a part of the necessary work which usually is done by a court reporter. By employing Mrs. Bracket to work overtime, Wardlaw said the jury obtained the

He said it was the unanimous wish of the jury to pay Mrs. Bracket for the overtime she worked late at night.

The commissioners, when refusing to acquiesce to the jury's rec-ommendation that Mrs. Bracket receive $25, remarked that they saw no reason to "set up a precedent" in paying employes overtime and further added that the jury had criticized the commissioners and county salary schedules.

Haire Says Commission Not Queried for Advice or Approval on Body's Slum Clearance Plans.

Co-operation of the Atlanta Housing Authority with the City Planning Commission to co-ordinate efforts for slum clearance nd reclamation of blighted areas was proposed yesterday at a meeting of the zoning sub-committee of the planning group, but definite tion was deferred until the next eting of committee.

meeting of committee.

Councilman Howard Haire, equicil representative on the planning body, brought the issue to a head with a discussion that the housing group had not sought the advice or the approval of the commission in development of its program for alum clearance.

He made a motion the commission "go on record as requesting the housing authority to submit its future plans to this body in order that we can work out what we believe to be a co-ordinated program for the development and preservation of Atlanta."

When he was reminded that similar resolutions already have been passed, he said he would not insist on a vote, but would take the matter under advisement until the next meeting of the commission, December 13.

Completed low cost housing projects must be populated by families of the same economic standard as those who occupied the houses before the improvements were made, if the stability of other neighborhoods is to be protected, Haire pointed out.

Future Traffic Outlets.

Another question discussed was that under apparent plans of the housing authority the worst slum areas which "form a ring of steel about the central business district are to be eliminated," and while doing this especial consideration should be given to development of future arterial highways and traffic control.

Walter S. McNeal, chairman of the zoning sub-committee, presided at the meeting attended by Hairs. Robert G. Lose chairman water S. McNeal, chairman of the zoning sub-committee, presid-ed at the meeting attended by Haire, Robert G. Lose, chairman of the planning commission, T. Elton Drake, and Dr. A. C. Ayers. Petition of a large number of residents in the Druid Hills section of Atlanta to bar any con-struction except one-family dwell-ing units was declared illegal by McNeal after Assistant City Attorney Jack C. Savage gave an opin-ion that the municipality could not delegate its zoning authority to any group of citizens.

The petition, presented by members of the Druid Hills Civic League, headed by Talmadge Dobbs, had asked that the only exception to the one-unit houses would be made after at least 51 per cent of the property owners in the affected area signed a petition for the exception Zoning Changes. Commission members approved changing from dwelling house to business zoning property on Thir-teenth street near Peachtree and on Vannoy street near Wiley street. The recommendations will go to council Monday for action of that body.

ommendations were filed to the following petitions to rezone dwelling property for business purposes: Foundry street and Electric avenue; Stewart avenue and Brook-line street; Kennedy and Elm streets; Gibson street near Fair street, and Walnut street near Spencer street.

A favorable recommendation was filed on the application of S. B. Johnson to operate a coal yard at 793 Hunter street, and the changing of the name of Wylie street from Weatherby street to Whiteford avenue to Wanda Way.
All other petitions were held over to the next committee meet-

Michael W. Howsowick, 26, Muskegon, Mich., took off his coat, rolled up his sleeves, loos-ened his tie and declared that the Communist party was the princi-pal advocate of the sit-down strikes.

"They felt that the sit-down was closer to the revolution than any other trikes," he explained. "You just took possession."

When Acting Chairman Starnes

Sheriff Tabb said blood hounds were put on the trail when Young fled into the woods, and while the search was still under way, investigating officers found Young at his home, dying from a .22 rifle wound in his head. Dr. A. B. Baughn and Dr. W. A. Hous-ton were called, and said his condition would not permit his removal to a hospital. Members of the family said Young and his wife had had domestic troubles, and that they had agreed recently to separate.

Mrs. Young, however, sought and obtained a peace warrant against her husband early this week, and a hearing was held on it yesterday, when the wife plead-ed for a court order to restrain him from molesting her. The order was granted, it was said, but Mrs. Young, reporting her husband had refused to obey it, sought another today.

Noblesse Oblige

The phrase, "noblesse oblige," roughly translated, means "the obligation of nobility." In other words, the man to whom fate has brought gifts of character, of education, of position above the average, is under an obligation to use those gifts for the benefit of all, to show in his own life he is worthy of his exceptional

There is, always, an obligation upon the man of higher quality to so live he will never besmirch his good repute. It is coming to be realized, more and more, that today the obligation upon the especially gifted in character, in education, in genius, is to use those talents for the best good of their fellows. The parable of the talents is, man is realizing, applicable in greater degree to public service than to any other activity of life.

All of which, summed up, means there is an obligation upon the best men of the America of today to enter public life, to seek public office. Not for personal glory or selfish gain, but in order that they may serve all the people, may use their advantages for the general public good.

One of the most unfortunate aspects of democracy is the fact that the man of high character is handicapped, when he seeks popular votes for public office, by his own conception of honor. Being an honorable man he cannot lie in his appeals to the public. His conscience will not permit him to make claims not consonant with the truth, nor to make promises he is not sure he can fulfill. On the other hand, his opponent, a professional politician, a demagogue, never hesitates to say anything upon the hustings, true or false, which will gain a few votes. Having no conscience to hinder, that demagogue will lard the voters' self-esteem with buttery flattery and gild their hopes with impossible promises of immediate utopia-if he, the demagogue, is elected.

Coupled with this handicap is the wretched practice of "mud-slinging," which makes of too many campaigns hideous travesties upon popular government. Thousands of men of highest qualifications, men of highest personal honor, will not consider public office for the simple reason they abhor the very thought of mud-slinging campaigns with rivals without

Thus the public service suffers. The best men are deterred from bringing their abilities and talents to the service of the people.

There is a story current to the effect that the 1940 race for the nomination to the governorship of Georgia "will not be a gentleman's race."

Webster's dictionary defines a gentlman as a man "of fine feelings, especially one of good character, raised above the vulgar by education, habits. . . ."

Bearing in mind that definition, is it not true that the state of Georgia is the loser if a campaign for the governorship is "no place for a gentleman."

Youth and Health

In recommending a vast public health program for the youth of the United States the American Youth Commission has looked squarely at a major national problem. The report of the commission, which is a private ornization composed of businessmen, educators and other citizens, has disclosed that each year millions of youths suffer from serious health handicaps because of failure to receive adequate medical care.

The commission, formed in 1935 by the American Council of Education, an organization of major educational institutions and associations, learned other facts. Its report quoted the finding of a United States office of education survey that only 10 per cent of college students had taken courses in hygiene and that probably no more than 6 per cent-an appallingly low figure—of all youth underwent annual physical examinations.

The health program suggested by the commission to remedy the present condition merits attention from thoughtful persons. When there is so much waste for unintelligent panaceas, it is not too much to ask for such improvements as expansion of public recreational programs; more adequate health education and regular physical examinations in the schools; medical facilities where they are now , and a cost of medical care within reach of those who cannot now afford it.

Business and War

One of the most distasteful bits of hokum left over from the last war was the charge that men forced the United States into the conflict to benefit business. But the same thought finds utterance today among certain classes of politicians and crusaders. They would lead their constituents and followers to believe business would "again" plunge the nation into war for profit.

It seems quite unreasonable to well-informed people that anybody, big businessman or little ssman, would want this country to become engaged in a war, for the simple reason that a form of government closely akin to totalitarianism would immediately come into be-

All prices, all wages, all profits, if any, would become fixed so that nobody would or could benefit financially from the conflict. Under present statutes business, industry and money would be conscripted for service along with the soldier in the field.

In an address before some 1,000 members of the Academy of Political Science, Thomas Lamont, one of the nation's leading businessmen, made it clear that the question of stay-in or stay-out of the war is no longer a matter for debate. The United States should stay out.

"There is nothing that businessmen the world over fear and detest so much as war," said Mr. Lamont. "I wish someone would run down the source of the idea that businessmen are inclined to war. In recent years we have seen Japan's aggression in Asia, Italy's in Africa and Hitler's in Europe. Is there anyone in his right mind who would suggest these acts of violence have been favored or promoted by husiness interests?"

It seems, without question, Mr. Lamont is right. The economy of the whole world was thrown out of gear by the destructive forces of the last great war. There were no real beneficiaries. Another such conflict would disrupt business no less than it would disrupt civiliza-

Swedish Economy Unbalanced

The Swedish system, the perfect balancing of the economic scales in that admirable little country to the north, has been given a rude jolt by the war.

The national budget, soundly balanced for years, has been disrupted. Loss of revenue resulting from wartime trade barriers, the necessity for keeping the army and navy constantly mobilized for emergencies, the purchase of armaments and providing of gas masks, air raid shelters and so on, are responsible for its disruption. The normal budget runs to $300,-000,000. Foreign Minister Wigforss has just announced the kingdom has gone in the red over $144,000,000 since last January.

A loan of $72,000,000 is to be asked of the Riksdag, the national assembly, by the government, and taxes are to be increased to acquire the remainder necessary to meet the 'emergency deficit." Liquor, tobacco, coffee and sugar are expected to carry the greater part of the burden, although the levy against these commodities already is unusually high. Purchases of munitions, fuel and certain foods ran up an import balance of approximately $85,000,000 during the past nine months against only $40,000,000 all of last year. Since the war started the country has lost over $70,-000,000 in foreign exchange.

No matter how scientifically government is operated, nor how efficiently, the scourge of war, whether a nation is directly involved or not, will bring disastrous, unwanted influences. In proportion to their wealth, population and resources, some of the small neutral nations of Europe have suffered more than the participants in the present conflict. And there is nothing they can do about it. They have to take it, like it and pay for it, too.

NAZI OIL SHORTAGE.

(From the Dallas Morning News.) Reports from The Hague, where close tab is kept on the economic situation in Germany, indicate that one of the chief worries of the Nazi leaders is their impending shortage of oil and gasoline. In normal peacetime, Germany uses about 8,000,000 tons of oil a year. For war years, the figure is larger. Nearly all this has to be imported, though Germany produces about 500,000 tons from coal. At the beginning of the present war, she had only 3,000,000 tons in storage.

Since the war began, Germany has been able to import relatively little oil from Rumania, Russia or other countries. She is hampered by cash-and-carry policies on every side. Even her new Soviet friend has shown no enthusiasm thus far for credit sales. Transportation is an equally difficult problem. To bring Russian oil to Germany in quantities would require the use of long river routes and shallow boats that would have to be built for the purpose.

Possibly Hitler will work some miracle to Possibly Hitler will work some miracle to obtain a big oil supply in some way not now foreseen. But unless this happens, he may have to be putting his warplanes back in the hangars and his tanks back in the garages before many months. It so, he may find it difficult to blame the Jews or any other scapegoat for the predicament which he has brought his country. Many of the Germans themselves may join in presenting him with a one-way ticket to some new St. Helena.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

BY JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

FINANCING DEFENSE WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The only two lessons to be drawn from all the commotion surrounding the President's Warm Springs statement that the country must decide whether to tax or borrow for national defense. The first is that, in this administration, taxes are a subject as inherently, inevitably comic as a prat-fall. And the second is that the President hates to let his subordinates close any possible line of action before he has time to make up his own mind.

For businessmen who fear war-born excess profits taxes, it may be said at once that these still seem unlikely. The Treasury, regarding them as sure to kill the goose of prosperity which is now laying golden eggs of increased revenue, is determinedly opposed to them. Indeed, the Treasury wants no tax bill of any sort, being congressional "peace bloc." As the Treasury was beginning to express its feelings pretty openly, the President spoke as he did to keep his own hands free. The fact that he has done so is not thought by the Treasury at least, to make a tax program any more likely. afraid that a profits tax rider might be tacked on by the so

COMEDY'S PLOT After this brief prologue, the tax comedy deserves to be described in detail. It be-gan some months ago, when the Treasury, in the person of Under-secretary John W. Hanes, invited scores of leading businessmen and experts to make suggestions for improving the tax system. These were carefully studied and codified. Since this is a campaign year, only the least controversial recommendations were approved for immediate action. A program was prepared. sional leaders wisely warned the Treasury that any tax bill would become a peg for the profits tax rider aforementioned. The tax program was hastily suppressed.

With no tax bill in prospect, all seemed peaceful on the tax front. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. and Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board Marriner S. Eccles departed for their respective short holidays in an atmopshere of happy concord. Be-fore leaving, they talked on the telephone. Eccles asked Morgenthau whether he had anything on his mind, and Morgenthau said he hadn't. Morgenthau shot the same question at Eccles, and received

Morgenthau was somewhat surprised, therefore, when his peaceful Arizona days were interrupted by news of a speech by Eccles in St. Louis. In this speech, Eccles strongly advocated a new tax program, including a broadened tax base, heavily increased middlebracket income taxes, and much larger corporate taxes to get at war

The speech was perfectly consistent with the Eccles philosophy, and was offered as an expression of personal views. It had not been cleared at the White House. The Treasury, however, was decidedly annoyed. In his chief's absence, Undersecretary Hanes replied that Eccles was not speaking for the Treasury. Hanes was much worried by the effect on business of Eccles' speech. Meanwhile, it had become public that the Treasury wished to recommend no tax program, and Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee, emerged from a talk with the President to announce that he fully agreed with the Treasury stand. Probably it was this combination of Harrson and the Treasury that upset the President, who well remembers how the same team eased him into last year's business-favoring tax revisions. At any rate, the President apparently began to feel "hemmed in," as one man close to him put it, and made his statement that the "country must decide." This left the situation exactly where it was before. The statement contained no suggestion that the President actually contemplated supporting new taxes. The question still has to be fought out between the President, the Treasury and the congressional leaders. And as the Treasury and congressional leaders are in agreement, the betting is still against tax increases.

PUNCH AND JUDY These proceedings derive their comic aspect from the impression that all the participants are at cross-purposes with one another. To an extent this is so. Purposes are most badly crossed, however, at the least important point, between the Treasury and the Reserve Board, which has no real authority in tax matters. The temporary peace between these two agencies is endangered. The Treasury once more begins to feel that Chairman Eccles whacks friend and foe alike, with the come-one, come-all spirit of Punch in the Punch and Judy show. Such is the only tangible development to date.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Tough Guy NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—I in-terrupted my series of pieces on the delousing of Kansas City to drop in two from Chicago proving that Willie Bioff, the hoodlum labor dictator of the amusement industry, is a convicted pander who still owes all but eight days of a sentence of six months in Chicago on a specific charge of receiving from a woman inmate of a brothel the sum of $29 earned by prostitution.

The Bioff matter was urgent only because I was afraid some-one else might stumble into the facts after I had dug them out of the files and court records and scoop me on my own piece. As to the timing of this disclosure and he reason for it, I will offer some liscussion later, but, to return now to Kansas City, I can report that the Pendergast gang is absolutely discredited and that the now chief of police, Lear B. Reed, a former G-man of the Young King Brady type, is so tough that even newspaper reporters can't get away ith traffic violations.

Reed is a Georgia man, about 40 years old, one of the new type lawyer-cops, and is hell on graft and corruption. He is not a green hand in the criminal affairs of Kansas City, for he was statione there in the services of the FBI., and thus was able to scan the dirty alliance between Pendergast's police department under Otto Higgins, the boss' police director, and the gambling and vice trades.

In the income tax Higgins Was Stooge case against Higgins, which resulted in a term of two years in Leavenworth penitentiary, Maurice Milligan, the federal district attorney, said he had evidence to show that Otto had been receiving $10,000 a month from Charles V. Carollo, the unnaturalized Sicilian who had general charge of the adninistration of underworld affairs. Carollo got eight years on three charges—perjury, mail fraud and tax dodging—and the matter of his deportation is in abeyand Carollo had access to Higgins' office at all times, but I think Milli-gan wandered off-line when he said, in demanding sentence on Higgins, that Otto's acceptance of money, derived from almost every possible form of violation of civil and moral law, revealed a depth of corruption in public office almost without parallel in the hisof Kansas City.

After all, Higgins was just stooge, and the boss crook of them all was the mealy old thief and hypocrite, Tom Pendergast himself, who was supposed to have tossed around vast amounts of stolen money in private benefac-tions but couldn't prove up in court, and he got 15 months for the income tax thing, although Milligan stipulated that he was waiving prosecutions on many other charges in the expectation that the court would weigh then in fixing Tom's term.

lad, he proved so brave and Reed is so tough that he has about 200 cops—one-third of Otto's force—already, and has announce ed that any policeman caught paying political contributions to machine will be canned outright The poor cops were more sinned against than sinning. Of course under such an administration som very bad crooks were brought into the police department. But the rank and file were just ill-paid victims of the system. They not ad to endure pay reductions by old Henry McElroy, the crooked city manager, so that he could make a phony show of ruthless economy, but had to shower down ban beat where DeWolf and the contributions out of their reduced pay to Pendergast's political funds

No Small It was no wonder Grafts that some men so hard up and beset with petty temptations took a fev dollars here and there, especially in view of the rotten lowever, the ordinary cop had little chance to graft for himself because the gamblers, brothe keepers and all were doing business with Carollo, who did business with Higgins. McElroy had a trick emergency fund which is still being investi gated. He would just write money over into his emergency fund an stand on his synthetic reputation for homespun frugality in city affairs when questions were raised Of the $8,000,000 which passed through this fund much, undoubt-edly, was spent for legitimate purposes, but McElroy got credit for great personal philanthrophy by contributing big hunks to charities out of the emergency pot.

I haven't told the whole story, but I think most of it has been cleaned up. However, in justice to Orville S. McPherson, the new Constitution Quiz owner of the Journal-Post, it should be said that after he took hold in September, 1933, this paper shook off its indifference and gave the Kansas City Star robust cor petition in the fight to smash Pendergast and clean up the mess. The papers played a big part in the reform, and, although Roy Roberts, of the Star, began it with his self in soon after he took hold. He certainly earned credit for an assist on the play.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

MR. ALEXANDER BITES THE DOG That lean "Old Ro man" at the Tech

Flats, Mr. William Alexander, has bitten the dog. But hard. And, I think, it was high time someone was biting the dog this particular field of news. I refer to the football "bowl" field If there has been any disgraceful development in the past decade of college athletics, none surpasses that development which saw the universities of the land stumbling and crowding and bowing d whining, seeking to get a bid to one of the bowl games.

It was quite the worst exhibition imaginable and I wonder that some of the faculty chairmen and coaches didn't get a bit sick of it. But let me hasten on with the story of "The Old Roman," Mr. Alexander. I have not talked with him but I got the story straight. One of the "bowl" committees told Mr. Alexander they were in-

THESE BOWL "FEELERS" Now and then the press reports that "feelers" have been sent out. The "feelers" usually are fflied with "ifs" and "buts" and "maybes." In this case I am told the Tech people were informed that Tennessee was first choice and that if Tech defeated Georgia and Tennessee didn't accept this particular bid, then, the bowl committee would deign to ask Tech.

The "Old Roman" was aroused. He and his school have been honest ever since A. H. Armstrong and "The Roman" were put in charge. So, the "Old Roman" said he believed Georgia Tech was an institution of learning. Also that its football team was composed of young men who, while some were on scholarships theless had to maintain the legitimate status of students. fore, he would not have them pawed over like a lot of mere

If the "bowl" in question wanted him and the team from the corgia School of Technology, then they could tell him so by noon the next day.

They couldn't say by the next day, and didn't quite believe it anyhow. But "The Old Roman" meant it.

He sent the "bowl" word he and his university and team were

The man bit the dog. And no matter what sort of gasps or explanations are made, that's the story.

And it's high time we had such a story.

A HEALTHY STAND It is to be hoped the Tech players and alumni will support Mr. Alexander with firmness and enthusiasm. The spectacle of a college football team being asked to cool its heels while some committee paws over eligible teams, offering second choices and even third, is not a

There are coaches and schools which will stand around patiently, on one figurative foot and then on the other, while some bowl committee says, in effect, "Wait around. You are the second or third choice. If we can't get a couple of teams we have in mind we'll take your outfit."

That's what it amounts to. It is a vulgar soft of insult and yet there are plenty of teams eager to wait around in the hope of being selected to play in a bowl, just any bowl.

The annual spectacle of faculty chairmen and coaches trying to win their way into one of these bowls is a disgusting spec I am glad Georgia Tech had the dignity to say that if they w the Tech team they could say so then and there. I don't imagine Tech alumni and the people of Atlanta would have liked it.

Tech isn't the worst choice for the Sugar Bowl. And even if they are not invited, there is the California game which will be Atlanta's "bowl" game and which will be a better game than most

THREE CHEERS Well, anyhow and at any rate, Georgia Techi still has a fine football team and her self espect. And I think it is high time other universities remembered that latter quality and developed it a bit.

The better universities, with some exceptions, are not available for bowl bids, even when eligible. Cornell is not. Notre Dame is not. They just play out their season and end it there.

They all are coming to that. Many of them who still crowd into the committee rooms trying to edge into a bowl game, haven' looked around to see the company they are keeping. There are times when the football reporters cheerfully could twist Mr. Alexander's neck. He is, at times, tough and ornery to interview. But they respect and admire him and, I am sure, have

The Shrewdest Fox Overlooks the Trap When He Is Desperate With Hunger

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Jacob, the shrewd politician, was cooking a pot of lentils when his brother, Esau, the red-haired hunter, came in from a day afield, faint with hunger. The odor of the cooking vegetables made him

And Esau said to Jacob, Feed me, I pray thee, with that same red pottage, for I am faint.

Sly Jacob was quick to see his advantage.

And Jacob said, Sell me this day thy birthright. And Esau said, Behold, I am at the point to d profit shall this birthright do to me? birthright unto Jacob. Then Jacob gave Esau bread and pottage of lentils.

These two, as you know, were brothers—nay, they were closer still; they were twin brothers. Esau, the first-born, was entitled the birthright, which made him heir to both wealth and power; but he was a simple, robust, outdoor man, easily outwitted by any

The point of the story to remember is not that Esau was s easily gypped, nor that he traded his birthright for so little, but that his brother took advantage of him when he was faint with hunger.

The other story we must remember is that of the wooden horse at besieged Troy. The Greeks, as you remember, had assaulted the walls of the city in vain. And when their siege also seemed doomed to failure, they constructed a mammoth wooden horse offered it to the Trojans as a gift. The Trojans accepted it and opened their city gates and wheeled it inside. And that night while the city slept, Greek soldiers hidden inside the horse opened a trapdoor, dropped to the ground, and opened the city gates to admit the Greek army. That treachery gave mankind a warning that has been repeated for housands of years: "Beware of Greeks bearing gifts."

It is a warning that our free people must remember if they Dictators stride into power on the empty stomachs of the people.

They offer easy money, and the people, made desperate by want, reach for it without thinking. And thus they trade thir birthright of liberty for a mess of pottage. For the easy-money gift horse conceals treachery. The innocent-looking plan people vote for contains a joker that would establish a dictator and give him power to enslave them. Thus far the trick has failed in America; but it will be tried again and again, and those who see through it must never relax their vigilance.

("With a different government at Finland's head Rus-sia is willing to make concessions," he said, according to the United Press.

("It is necessary that the Finnish government should not be hostile to Soviet Russia but friendly in its relations with us.") Recent border incidents which e called "abominable" were cited by Molotoff as justification.

Allege Cannonading.
Russian sources alleged Finnish cannonading caused "heavy casualties" among her Red soldiers Sunday, and that Finnish infantry ments were driven back by machine gun fire Tuesday.

Russia's effort to prevent a re-currence of such incidents by securing withdrawal of Finnish troops from the border, said Molotoff, had met with stubbornness

But in spite of everything, he continued, "the peoples of the Soviet Union have done what was found it necessary immediately to necessary for the independence of Finland. The peoples of our country are prepared to assist the Finnish people in securing a free, in-dependent development."

At the time of Russia's breaking off of diplomatic relations she had not yet received the Finnish note prepared yesterday in Helsinki as an answer to Russia's denunciation of their non-aggression pact made seven years ago.

(Helsinki dispatches said the note was delivered about three hours after the sever-ance of relations.

(In a previous note Finland had rejected a Russian mand for withdrawal of Finnish troops 12 to 16 miles from the border.)

Controversy on Fire.
The Russian-Finnish controversy had been on the fire since last October 7 when Finland accepted Russia's invitation to confer on demands for military and naval concessions. The Finnish delegation to Moscow refused to make territorial concessions and negotiations were suspended Noember 13. Bitter attacks on Finland by the Soviet press followed.

Before the startling diplomatic action today hopes of a peaceful settlement had been raised by reports of Finnish troop withdrawals a short distance from the Rus-Russia demanded three days ago that Finnish troops withdraw at least 12 miles within the frontier. Finland replied she would do so only on condition Russia did like-Helsinki reports, however, said

Finnish border patrols had been withdrawn at some points to avoid clashes with Russians.

(Finland's soberly considered reply to the Russian note of Tuesday which denounced the esday which denounced the seven-year - old non - aggression pact between the two nations, was sent to Moscow Wednesday, said Helsinki dispatches.)

An unofficial but well-informed Soviet source said Moscow wished to avoid war but hoped for resumption of negotiations which might bring some concessions from Finns, who thus far have lending the ax to a neighbor that balked at handing over any strategic territory.

If concessions can be won peacefully without loss of face by the Russians, this source said, their the Soviet Union may modify her original demands on Finland for a naval base on the Gulf of Finland, ression of Finnish arctic territory and a strip of land on the Kraelian is hmus north of Leningrad. Moscow has committed herself so far on the demand for territory north of Leningrad, however, that it was believed there would be no backing down on this point.

The unofficial Soviet source said Russia hopes to have the Finnish matter cleared up by December 21, Joseph Stalin's birthday, which is expected to be turned into a great celebration.

Though new hope for peace was expressed elsewhere, the govern-ment newspaper Izvestia bitterly assailed the Finnish government for its "pro-Czarist, anti-Soviet tendencies" and "hatred of every-thing Soviet and love of everything

The British say the Belfast was hit in the Firth of Forth, while Prien reports he sank the second cruiser east of the Shetlands Iswhich is evidence that the count is two.
303,000 Tons Lost.

On the basis of the published figures at this writing, Britain has lost 303,000 gross tons of merchant shipping in slightly less than three months since the war began At this rate, the sinkings for a year would be approximately 1,300,000 tons, 400,000 more than the 900,000 she builds anually, which is hardly alarming, since it would take five years to reduce by 10 per cent the British total of nearly 21,000,000 tons.

The neutral countries around conference the North sea have lost in larger proportion to the totals of their fleets and their building than Britain.

But the rate of British sinkings the last two weeks, since Germany began laying "magnetic" mines has been threatening, although not as large as in April, 1917, when we entered the war to learn that, if the Germans could hold the same rate in their "unrestricted submarine warfare," Britain might be starved out in eight months.

Improved Mine. Since Prime Minister Chamberlain announced that the British had discovered the secret of the magnetic mines. Berlin informs us that the Germans are merely laying an improved magnetic mine on the compass principle, which the British used in 1918. Deflection of the compass in the mine by the proximity of a steel hull causes explosion of the charge. The next question is how long the British navy can stand the war; precipitating the question of losses of warships. Counting adwhether he can starve Britain out mitted losses in this war, the total is not equal to the numbers built in the last three months. Is Germany building submarines faster than she is losing them?

Many naval experts are surprised at how little damage the German pocket battleship Deutschher credit until she sank the Rawalpindi. This revealed her location to the British admiralty. So far, she has been in the only surface naval battle in the war.

Naval experts are generally confident-such are Britain's resources in construction and so enormous her preponderance in naval and merchant ships-that Hitler will have to show punches than he has yet to break

BLOCK IMPERILED BY $30,000 FIRE

Flames Destroy Building Housing Sign Firms; Blaze Fed by Paints; Fire Official Overcome.

Loss of approximately $30,000 was reported last night from a fire which partly destroyed a two-story building at 268 Marietta street early yesterday morning.

The flames, fed by highly inflammable paints and oils, left one building in ruins, and for a time threatened the entire block. Heavy loss in stock damaged by water was reported by firms in adjoining buildings.

Damages, as tentatively estimated by officials of the Fire Companies' Adjustment Bureau, were set at between $20,000 and $25,000 for the destroyed building, and from $3,000 to $5,000 for damaged stock at the Graham Paper Company, occupant of an adjoining building.

The blaze was discovered short.

The blaze was discovered short-ly after 1:30 a. m. when dense smoke poured from the two-story structure. A few minutes later the entire front of the building burst into flames.

A comparison of October with September percentage increases, in both number on pay roll and amount of pay roll, showed Georgia gains of 5.2 and 7.8 per cent respectively.

Tracing the city's growth from its establishment as a railroad terminus, through its rise from the ashes of a war to its present cultural and commercial development, Major Howell points out that Atlanta has developed into a city while retaining the friendlimes and spirit of co-operation for the development of the community which is more characteristic, as a rule, of the small town. He summarized the city's cultural interest as follows:

The Civic Chorus, which this fall presented a light opera in Grant park.

Atlantans have been enthusiastic patrons of the theater since ante-bellum days, says the writer. It has a municipal auditorium which seats 6,000 people, and numerous theaters. The best of the Broadway plays are performed in the city, and to indicate the cultural broad-mindedness of the community, he points out, it even accepted "Tobacco Road."

President Stops Off in Asheville F. D. R. STRATEGY HITS REPUBLICANS

G. O. P. Chairman Squawks at Suggestion of Delayed Party Conclaves.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. President Roosevelt has threatstrategy planned by the Republicans with respect to the 1940 campaign by the suggestion at Warm Springs yesterday that both major parties delay their national con-ventions until well into the summer.

Hence the loud squawk emanating from Republican National Chairman John Hamilton accusing Mr. Roosevelt of abrogating the authority to speak for the Republican party.

At the same time, however, the G. O. P. national chairman admitted the suggestion for delay "is a matter which is receiving careful consideration within our party."

For weeks the undercover talk has been in Washington political circles that the Republicans planned to out-wait the Democrats next year in setting a time and place for the 1940 national conclave.

For a great many years it has been customary for the Democrats to come along after the Republi-cans in setting up their convention nominating machinery. The idea has gotten abroad among Republicans the Democrats have enjoyed an advantage in that it enabled them to see what the Republican platform contained. And now Mr. Roosevelt, apparently with some relish, projects the theme for both parties, on the theory that the country would be bored with a long campaign with war developments in Europe hold-ing first attention.

Prominent Augustans To Attend G. W. T. W. Ball and Premiere And Fiance Honored

By Sally Forth.

A UGUSTA will be well represented at the Junior League's "Gone With the Wind" costume ball by Mr. and Mrs. Hal Powell, They will visit Mr. and Mrs. Stephens Mitchell, brother and sister-in-law of Margaret Mitchell, who wrote the famous book. Mrs. Powell, only sister of Mrs. Mitchell, is the former lovely and titian-haired Mary Reynolds, who spent part of her girlhood in Atlanta. She is the daughter of Mrs. Joseph Reynolds, who lives with Mrs. Mitchell at her Peachtree road residence. Her father was a very distinguished lawyer, served in the Georgia legislature several terms, and was solicitor general of the superior court in the Augusta district.

THE President's proclamation changing the date of Thanksgiving from the last Thursday in November to November 23 put a temporary damper on Josephine Sanders' spirits. The lovely debutante, who made her tormal bow at a brilliant tea-dance at the Piedmont Driving Club on the afternoon of the "Georgia" Thanksgiving, was keenly disappointed because her favorite cousin failed to appear.

The young gentleman in question is Charles Stanton Sharp, of Dallas, Texas, who was to fly here to attend the gala occasion, along with Cullen Sheppard Thomas, also of Dallas. The Lone Star State, however is celebrating its Thanksgiving today, thus causing the mixing of dates. But every cloud has a silver lining, as evi-denced by the arrival yesterday of the Texans, who are seniors in the law school at the University of Texas and members of the Phi Word concerning their popularity with the debutantes of their native state has preceded the pre-possessing pair. In spite of the rigidity of the law course at the university and the vastness of their state, they frequently fly to debut parties in various cities, but this 2,000-mile journey sets a record for them.

"G.W.T.W." Starl Owns a Bustle Nightgown

By Sheilah Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29.—How do you like fashion's newest hostess dinner gown? Laraine Day, Metra - Goldwyn - Mayer featured player, wears the lovely gown of navy blue taffeta interwoven with fine gold thread. The great sweep of skirt is in direct contrast to the snug bodice and long, tight sleeves. Collar, cuffs and tiny buttons of velvet add the finishing touch. Very flattering to the figure is the silk jersey dinner gown worn by Barbara Stanwyck in "Remember the Night?" In light blue, the model has a high-waisted, draped shoulder treatment. A narrow belt of the material ties about the molded waistline and the skirt falls in bias lines with fullness centered in back through the use of godets.

Deanna Durbin wears a dress which might have stepped out of an old potrait in Universal's "First Love." It is of African sapphire blue Lyons velvet, styled in princess lines. The bodice is fitted to the hipline and continues into an extremely full skirt which stands out in deep folds to the floor. The bottom of the skirt is finished with heavy velvet cable cord, about which is appliqued a wide band of Point Venise lace. The velvet cording also outlines the low-cut bodice which has Point Venise lace yoke. Full-shouldered sleeves drape in tightly to just below the elbows. Completing the costume is a Juliet cap of the same lace. Deanna should look very attractive in all this.

This Pattern Subtly Minimizes Width

By Barbara Bell. .

This afternoon dress with the beautifully sculptured line is proof positive that the most slenderizing and individual fashions are those you make for yourself, exactly to your measure. Pattern 1873-B is the most gracefully slenderizing design imaginable. Everything about it directs the eye up-and-down, subtly minimizing width. The paneled skirt is slim and plain with front panel cut high enough to flatten the diaphragm.

The bodice drapery shows the newest and most slimming way to introduce color contrast. It adds a dressy touch, with no hint of fussiness or frill. Make this of flat crepe, thin wool or satin-crepe, using the satin surface for the con-trast. Detailed sew chart with

"Condition" Air MY DAY For Health's Sake

By Dr. William Brady.

In order to keep the discussion on a practical basis and avoid vague conjecture it is well to revague conjecture it is well to re-member that no one knows what "resistance" means, but we do know what immunity means, and so when we speak of suscepti-bility to respiratory infection, whether it is diphtheria or influenza or pneumonia or simple sore throat we mean that the individual has less immunity against the specific infection than is necessary to protect him against the dis

Whether any particular factor o influences may raise or lower an individual's immunity to many or all of the respiratory infections is debatable.

In recent years many patholo-gists have come to believe that lack of or insufficient intake of certain vitamins, notably vitamin A, may render the individual more susceptible to any and all respiratory infections. The pathologists have formed this opinion from study of animal nutrition. They have found that a deficiency in the daily intake of vitamin A is responsible for impaired growth and function of the mucous membranes in all parts of the body. nd when the mucous membranes lining the respiratory tract are not as healthy and vigorous as they should be, the individual's first line of defense against bacterial invasion is weakened.

When an individual is unduly susceptible to respiratory infection there is one way he can find out whether his susceptibility is due to vitamin A deficiency, and that is by seeing to it that his daily intake of vitamin A is considerably greater for a few months than may be necessary to keep a normal in-dividual perfectly well. It may be practicable in some instances to get such an optimal vitamin A intake from food alone—as by drinking more milk and cream, eating more butter, egg yolk, carrot greens, liver, etc.; it is easier to take pure natural vitamin A in capsule to supplement the diet -say three capsules daily, each capsule containing 25,000 units of natural vitamin A (not pro-vitamin A or carotene, which requires metabolism in the animal body to convert it into natural or real vitamin A). This therapeutic experiment can do no harm in any cir-cumstance—may improve health ment can do no harm in any circumstance—may improve health

I reached my apartment a little after 5, and after a quiet dinner, Mrs. Henry Morgenthau Jr. and I spent a most interesting evening seeing "The Time of Your Life," a play by William Saroyan. I have always supposed that it would be impossible to recognize anyone in the audience across the footlights, so I was tremendously pleased last night when I thought I caught Mr Dowling's eye and really received a wave of recognition. Of course, it may not have been meant for me!

There is something in this play which is reminiscent of "Here Come the Clowns," which I so much enjoyed last year. Every character on the stage is interesting. The staging is excellent and I think every part was well taken. Gene Kelly does some excep-

I think every part was well taken. Gene Kelly does some exceptionally good dancing and Julie Haydon gives a sensitive and understanding portrayal of a difficult character. Mr. Dowling has come to be the center of any play in which I have seen him of late, because of the appreciation I feel for the way in which he portrays humor, sentiment and deep human emotions. The humor of "Time of Your Life" is delightful and the audience which filled the average and itself that I think they must have gone away with last night enjoyed itself, but I think they must have gone away with

This morning I went to the office of Women's Day magazine to have a photograph taken with the winner of a recipe contest held by the magazine, Mrs. H. C. Davis, of North Coshocton, N. Y. She sat down with me and we tasted New England succotash, which is her particular dish and the one she suggests for church suppers It has one great advantage in that it can be prepared the day before and improve in flavor by standing. I can vouch for the fact that it tastes extremely good, for I would have liked to finish the bowl before me, but in the interest of my figure, I re-

Afterwards I went to the little shop called "Trade Winds," which has been started as an outlet for refugee hand and craftwork, and found some attractive things to add to my Christmas gifts. Then I visited the Little Gallery on East 8th street, where some of the artists of the neighborhood are exhibiting paintings and craftwork. By this time, it was time to go to the Hotel Roosevelt for the Symposium on Household Employment luncheon, in which 22 women's organizations co-operated. I had an opportunity to hear Dr. Watson sum up the morning's round-table discussions, and I hope that this extremely interesting meeting will lead to some real action in this field of domestic employment.

Faith Gardner, orphaned as a child, is raised by an aunt in a New England village. She is a stenographer in a factory and when her aunt dies she goes to New York. Lonely, jobless sometimes, after two years she and Gretchen Cole turnish a small apartment. Faith is then a secretary in the firm of which Walter Edmonds is vice president. Gretchen, who left an Ohio town after a shattered romance, is a stylist in a big store. Greg Heath, employed by the Endmonds firm takes her to a cocktail party given by Edmonds and his wife Astrid. Walter presents her to Franz Braggonier, musician and composer, whom Astrid met in Hawaii. She is in love with him and plans to divorce Walter. Even before she meets Carl Edmond's, Walter's brother, famous as an aviator, she is in love with him. As she leaves, the Edmonds' prefty, headstrong, 16-year-old daughter Sue meets her, saying she has run away from school again. She likes Faith and at her suggestion Walter makes her his secretary. He asks her to win Suce enfidence and suggest how to suce enfidience and suggest how to suce enfidence and suggest how to suce enfidence and suggest how to suce enfidence and suggest how to make the problem of getting rid of Walter Gretchen is promoted to Pariner, who had quit hard drinking when perfuses to elope with young Michael Britton and he said he wouldn't see he furst time but she knows he won't marry her. Tech 'Retires' From Orange Bowl Field; Injuries Riddle Line

Brown May Start in Nowell's Place Against Tech Saturday JACKET CENTER

The big question today seems not to concern who is going to win, but can Kentucky score?

The big blue-clad Wildcats, tied by Alabama and beaten by Georgia Tech, are entertaining the vicious Volunteers of Tennessee at Lexington.

All agree that Kentucky has a plethora of hard-running backs, a good passing attack, a strong line and a commanding esprit d' corps. It is figured that Tennessee will be facing the strongest running attack of the season's schedule. But can the George Cafego returns to Tennessee at a time when the Vols seem to need him. They might win without him, as they did against Vandy, but the breaks don't always go that way.

The Bulldog r.

Vanderbilt held Tennessee's ground attack to minus three yards with Cafego on the sidelines. Incidentally, the Kentucky game can bring Cafego back to the forefront in all-conference consideration. If he sparks the Vol attack, he will remove all doubt as to his greatness. Injuries have retarded him this year.

The stage is all set for one of those old-fashioned upsets in your old Kentucky home. Several times before the Vols were all set to go somewhere and a tie game with Kentucky bobbed up to ruin everything.

It's a shot almost too long to contemplate, but Kentucky nevertheless should threaten the unscored-on goal line of the men of Orange. Besides their running, the Wildcats also may show the Vols the best passing attack they've seen all season. lot of service.

Billy Gibson Will Be Ready for Some Action Saturday.

By JACK TROY.

There appear to be only two very definite things regarding the Tech-Georgia game on Saturday. One is that it will be played before a capacity crowd at Grant field and the other that the kickoff will take place at 2 o'clock.
Injuries to the key men have shaded Tech's edge of superiority.
Not only is Robert (Butch) Aderhold, a great guard, definitely out,

The Orange Bowl commit-tee last night was noncom-mital on Coach Alexander's statement, but there was opinion in certain well-informed circles in Miami that there is a loophole in the statement and that Tech may yet prove receptive to a bid after Saturday's game with Georgia. It is not at all cer-tain that California, having had a bad year, will want to make the trip to Grant field but the word yesterday was that Jim Wright, firststring center, will be used only in an emergency.

Aderhold is out because of a knee injury, while Wright has an injured him. injured hip.

Billy Gibson, who missed the Georgia game last year because of a knee injury, is expected to be ready to play some on Saturday but just how much remains to be seen. Billy has worked lightly this week.

LITTLE SCRIMMAGE.

The Jackets had a little scrimmage late yesterday afternoon at Rose Bowl field but spent most of the day avoiding contact work. Further injuries would be little less than disastrous.

Roane Beard, a senior, seems likely to take Jim Wright's place at center, with S. B. Sutton as his relief. A bevy of guards will be used as Neil Cavette's running mate. Richards, Perkerson, Dyke and Sanders are on call and Sanders are on call.

Any strain the Jackets might have felt over an Orange Bowl bid hinging on the outcome of the Georgia game was removed yesterday by Coach W. A. Alexander when he issued the following statement:

"Georgia Tech appreciate very much being considered by the Orange Bowl committee for that game.

"However, Georgia Tech is un-willing to accept any bowl invi-tation that is contingent upon the outcome of the Georgia Tech-Georgia game Saturday.

MALIGNANT INDEED.

A strange letter arrived in the mail from Athens yesterday. It charges malignant treatment of Frank Sinkwich, who prob ably got more credit from this department and the other Atlanta papers than any other freshman in history.

The letter charges other things which are totally unfounded It is a strange bit of writing on the whole, as follows:

We have just finished reading your definitely ma-lignant article of November 28. Your article deals with Sinkwich, one of the 'greats' on our freshman team. Far be it from us to mention the hunting tactics of some of the southern schools, including Georgia Tech. Your sympathy for Tech can only spring from the fact that they didn't get there first. Better luck next time.

"Yours truly,

What sympathy for Tech-that's the question? This corner may have sympathy for Oglethorpe, its alma nammy, but has always found that neither Tech nor Georgia needed any of its sympathy. Rain Expected; Aggies Seek Tenth and Final Win Today.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 29.—(P)—Bleak skies threatened rain tomorrow for the unbeaten Texas Aggies' tenth and final game of the season-a date with a University of Texas team intent on putting a sour finish to the Cadets' rush to glory.

But some 40,000 who have fought for weeks for tickets to the season's dramatic finale be there, rain or shine. Kyle field, scene of only one Texas A. and M. defeat in the 45 years of rivalry of the two state institutions, was covered with a tarpaulin.

Critics immediately raised odds on the giant Aggie machine with prospects of rain. Dry footing is needed to shake loose Cowboy Jack Crain and Gilly Davis, Tex-as' two brilliant scat runners.

Dependent on power through nine straight victories, the Aggies, with exception of one man, were ready for slow or fast going. Walemon (Cotton) Price, senior quarterback with a misbehaving knee, was listed as a doubtful player. This one game stands between the Aggies and a certain Rose or Sugar Bowl bid, many believing the latter will be locale for an Aggie New Year's Day visit if they come through.

Three southern states elected to elebrate their Thanksgiving Day on the calendar's red-letter date, so this week's football program in the Southeastern conference has a double-barreled volley for fandom. 4 Girls--Wins $1,736

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 29,—(P)—Four Washington girls collected a daily double pay-off of $1,736.30 today—for a total stranger.

Here's the story as told by Corinne Dulin, Edna Phelps, Edna Chambers and Cora McAllister, employes of Western Union in Washington:

En route to the Bowie race track, they stopped at a lunch counter for a snack. While they talked about racing, a strange man approached them and said:

"I have never seen you before, but you look both honest and lucky, so I wish you would play a daily double for me."

On a slip of paper he wrote "Shailleen and Rib Roast" and his name, J. McWhorter, Blackstone hotel, Washington. He didn't bother to get the girls' names.

bother to get the girls' names. Wrapping $2 around the note, he said: Wrapping $2 around the note, he said:

"Neither of these horses has a chance and I never win. But if your luck should carry me through, bring the money to the hotel. Bring along your boy friends and we'll have a real party."

The girls bought McWhorter's daily double ticket, but they didn't play either horse themselves. Shailleen won the first race at $37.40 for $2 and Rib Roast the second at $43.80 for $2. McWhorter was one of eight people who won the $1,736.30 double.

about Ab Kirwan, Kentucky star in his day, now ending his second year as coach, and his staff:

The Kentucky coaching staff undoubtedly has done one of the most remarkable jobs in the country this year. Our scouts tell us that the Wildcats have one of the fastest big teams they ever saw. Ben Brown wants, more he says than anything he ever wanted in his life, a return match with Ken Overlin, only man ever to beat the Atlanta middleweight twice, or win a return match from him.

Sam Sobel, Brown's manager, wired officials at the Sports Arena here yesterday that he thought Brown deserved another chance with Overlin in view of the fact that Ben suffered an attack of ptomaine poisoning five days before his fight with Overlin at Minami Monday night, had to slow his training and did not have his usual fire and power.

"We went ahead with the fight and Kept Brown's condition a secret because it was a Christmas trail Saturday.

"I think," said Sobel, "that Brown made a remarkable showing, in view of his condition. It just proves how really good Ben is when he is right. He stood up for 10 rounds against the second-ranked middleweight in the world, and came out without a mark on him. I think the boy deserves another chance and he serves another chance and he is confident that under more favorable circumstances, he will prove his superiority over Over-lin."

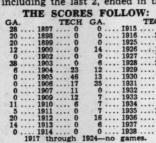

Sports Arena officials revealed they were attempting to contact Chris Dundee, Overlin's manager, in New York, relative to bringing the match here before Christmas. However, some doubt was expressed that Overlin, with two victories and a draw with Brown in three starts, would care to meet Brown again, unless perhaps the fight be staged on a winner-

Georgia Confederation Is

A move on the part of the Georgia Milk Producers' Confederation, Inc., to lower the price of milk to its consumers in the Atlanta area was halted yesterday when Judge James C. Davis, of temporary injunction forbidding the confederation from selling milk in the Atlanta shed below the minimum prices which the Geor-gia Milk Control Board insists it has a right to set.

The action was interpreted as another step in the fight of the Milk Control Board to regulate prices of all wholesalers and retailers in compliance with the milk control act of 1937. Judge Davis set a hearing for 9 o'clock Saturday morning. Under the temporary order the confederation also was forbidden to sell milk in the Gainesville milk shed, or any other shed, without obtaining a state license.

In the petition the Milk Control Board alleged that the confederation is getting around the milk control act through a plan by which the purchaser claims to be an agent of the company and sells at wholesale when he should be selling at retail. The petition further sets out that the confederation is selling to Atlanta retailers under a rebate system that would make it appear the retailers are agents or employes of the corporation and charges that the marketing organization is selling milk in the Gainesville milk shed without a li-Group Will Fight.

Morgan Belser, attorney for the onfederation, claimed the allegations as set out in the petition were all "general," and asserted the confederation had not been violating the milk control act. "We have just been served with the papers, he said, "but the charges are not true and we are going to fight the injunction.' One of the allegations in the petition said that fully 60 per cent of the milk sold in the Atlanta area through the defendant's retail outlets was sold below the minimum established price through the contract system with purchasers.

Board To Enforce Act. Charles G. Duncan, of the Milk Control Board, said the action against the confederation was in ine with a policy established by the board several months ago and asserted it was the board's intention to enforce the milk control

Representing the milk board in bringing the injunction was the firms of Hirsch, Smith, Kilpatrick, Cox. Campbell and McLamb, and Augustine Sams, John Candler and Steve Clay. The Atlanta milk shed embodies an area within a radius of eight miles of the Fulton county court-

CABINET APPROVES DALADIER REQUEST

Decree Powers Are Believed Included.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The cabe inet today approved unanimously a project presented by Premier Daladier, presumably embodying a request for extension of his decree powers, which expire tomorrow. An announcement following the cabinet session with President Al-hert Lehrun said merely that the ministers were ein complete cord on the measure which the premier will submit to parliament tomorrow. The cabinet has been ruling with virtual dictatorial powers, in-forming parliament of its decisions through committees of the two chambers.

COLLEGE NAVAL RESERVES SOUGHT

Graduates To Be Used for Junior Officers. WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 .- (AP)-

Charlies Edison, acting secretary, said today the navy planned to use graduates of college naval reserved training units as junior officers and was negotiating to increase the number of such units.

They represent a "very valuable adjunct" to the navy, he declared. At his press conference, the acting secretary said the general board expected to reach a decision next month on the designs of two new cruisers for completion of which has been delaye for a study of developments of the European sea warfare. graduates of college naval reserve training units as junior officers

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(P)
Traders pushed shares in quantity at the stock market trading posts in the last quarter hour of today's session and leaders fell back fractions to 3 points under the previous close.

The decline followed early attempts to rally, led by the steels and motors, in which fractions to around 2 were added. For most of the day action was slow and it was only in the closing period the tape stepped up.

Announcement the long and costly Chrysler labor dispute had been settled was taken as the signal for buying at the quiet opening and it kept up, more or less, until about 1 o'clock. These offerings increased and support fell away.

Traders' Interest Centers on Federals to Neglect of Other Issues.

Daily Bond Averages. NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(P)-

United States governments climbed again today in the bond market, ed again today in the bond market, leaving most of the rest of the list far behind.

The majority of traders' interest centered on the federals to the neglect of other securities. At the close, the treasuries were up as much as half a point, while Federal Farm Mortgage 3 1-4s had gained 1 3-32nds point.

Transactions were small, $6.761,500, face value, compared with $6,555,500 yesterday. Although gains and losses were about equally divided among corporate securities, the Associated Progressions.

gains and losses were about equally divided among corporate securities, the Associated Press average of 10 industrials reached 101.5, the highest point since September 22, 1937.

Belgian issues made good gains among the foreign government dollar loans, as did the Latin Americans, but the Baltic nations' securities slipped.

Funds Practically Gone; Needy Crowd Stations Asking for Coal, More Food, Shoe Repairs, Etc.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29.-(A)-Harassed relief clients told city interviewers today landlords were threatening evictions for want of Destitute persons crowded six district relief stations. They com-plained food orders were insuf-ficient, that they needed coal, shoe repairs, and street car tickets for trips to hospitals.

"We have enough money to pay November rents, but if we use it we won't have enough to pay for December food, said Sydney Riley, assistant relief commissioner. Payments to landlords are about 90 days in arrears.

Rent Is City Obligation. Mayor Harold H. Burton pre-

"They won't actually throw the people out while payment of rent is a moral obligation of the city. Nobody is being evicted and the situation hasn't gotten to the point yet where we have to choose between food and rent."

One woman relief client complained at a relief office inter-viewing window:

"What am I going to do? My landlord says he will put me out tomorrow unless the rent is paid."

More Money January 1.

One answer, officials explained tonight, is to telephone the landlord and assure him the city will now after January 1.

pay after January 1, when 1940 moneys will relieve the current situation. The city is dispensing relief with $300,000 found last week through a state attorney general's ruling—about $700,000 short for normal needs to the first of the year.

of the year.

It hopes another ruling will release $200,000 more through issuance of special bonds against delinquent taxes. Officials last week cut 15,000 persons—including single persons and childless couples not actually ill—off the rolls. This made the city direct relief total 45 000 relief total 45,000.

Situation Is Tense. The situation remained tense at the district stations, where police and firemen stood guard, out of general sight. Many clients, including women, were profane in their demands. An angry man tossed bricks through two windows at one station.

The leader of an association of unemployed declared men relief-ers soon would invade restaurants, order and eat meals and charge them to the city.

Riley commented:
"That's a new one. I'm afraid if the restaurant owner accepts, he will be holding the bag."

'Tough Sleddin' Is Ahead For the Teachers' Santa

But State School Superintendent
M. D. Collins yesterday advised all local school superintendents that the salaries would be paid by January 1, 1940, and that if they could make arrangements with local banks to pay their teachers before the holidays, they might do so with assurance the money would be so payment of the December salaries must be paid from the state ad valorem tax.

"The ad valorem tax is not finally due until December 20, and the bulk of the funds do not reach the state treasury until after the Christmas holidays. For this reason payment of the December salaries must be paid from the state ad valorem tax.

'Daring' Pilot Chases 'Nazis' Over Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.— (P)—
For a wild half-hour today a daring young man in a flying machine apparently flew in his fancy over the war zone—and a lot of people in southern Cook county probably wished he were there in fact.

The eccentric pilot took off from the Harlem airport in a rented monoplane. Within five minutes complaints of his capers began to flood police stations. He was rein rapid-fire order as hopping hedges, clipping trees, scud-ding along 10 feet above Cicero avenue, darting down at autonobiles and zipping around

He bobbed so close to a squad car that two policemen took shelter in a ditch. Inmates of the Oak Forest infirmary feared he was trying to fly in the windows. The plane finally crashed in a vacant lot, breaking through high tension power lines and "blacking out" the village of Markham for the nonce. One wing was torn off.
Officers in one of six pursuing police cars extricated the aviator from the wreckage. He was iden-tified as Emil Hampel, 18, a junior college student. An arm and leg were broken. At a hospital he spoke vaguely of war, Nazis and enemy planes. Civil Aeronautics authority inspectors planned to question him later.

MRS. HATTIE WILLIAMS AND CHILDREN,

Now---Shoppers' Bus Service For Tenth Street Community

More evidence of progress of the rapidly-growing Tenth Street business community! Increasing usefulness of Atlanta's popular five-cent transportation service! Extended facilities to meet a new demand!

Beginning Friday, December 1, the Shoppers' Special buses which formerly turned back at the Fox Theater will continue out Peachtree Street to Eleventh Street, thus providing this convenient, five-cent transportation service between the downtown section and one of Atlanta's busiest community centers.

The new line, starting at the City Hall, will operate through downtown Atlanta as formerly, continuing out Peachtree to Eleventh Street, and on Eleventh Street to Columbia Avenue, the terminus of the line. The other Shoppers' Special line, also originating at the City Hall, will turn east on Ponce de Leon Avenue at Peachtree-and out Ponce de Leon to the Ball Park as heretofore.

In the downtown area—from the City Hall to Ponce de Leon and Peachtree, Shoppers' Special buses will run every three-and-a-half minutes. From Ponce de Leon and Peachtree to Eleventh Street and to the Ball Park they will run every seven minutes, alternate buses making trips to the two destinations.

Ride the five-cent Shoppers' Special buses. See how much more convenient it is to use them than to drive-and park-your own automobile in heavy traffic.
